The stock market to-day was again active and deeidedly weak throughout, and a large portion of yesterday's gains were lost. The effect of the Reading affair seemed, this moening, to have entirely passed away, and the market was again in the hands of the traders, who took advantage of the lower prices in London to renew the attacks upon the list. The feelfing in the room was very unsettled and the buying was scattering, soon ceasing to have any influence upon the sourse of prices, as far as could be seen. Rumors of a serious turn in Mr. Gould's indisposition were cirrculated, and they even went so far as to have him dead before the close of the board. This had a very distressing influence upon the Gould specialties, and Missouri Pacific became the special object of attack. Its price was forced off over B per cent., and the rest of the list followed, though in but few stocks did the losses exceed a point. The opening figures were from 19 3 per cent. below last evening's prices, while Reading was off 7s. Northern Pacific, preferred, 5s, and the market declined from the first sales, with Missouri Pacific in the lead. The greater portion of the decline was made in the first half hour for most of the list. was made toward 11 o'clock, but the tion was made toward 11 o'clock, but the decline was soon resumed, with greater activity, and Missouri Pacific dropped 34 per cent. Another rally occurred toward 11:30, but it was of but short duration, and the market became more quiet, but remained heavy, closing at about the lowest prices reached. The whole active list is lower this evening. Missouri Pacific lost 3 per cent.; Reading, 14; St. Paul, 14; New England, 12; Union Pacific, Northern Pacific preferred, and Fort Worth Denver, 14; each.

Railroad bonds were quiet'and irregular. Minneapelis & St. Paul equipments rose 22; to 534. Pacific income receipts lost 24 at 44, and Mobile & Ohio third debenture certificates, 2, at 25.

Government bonds were dull and steady. State bonds were dull and steady. Closing quotations were:

CHICAGO, May 26.—The opening on 'Change was characterized by general weakness, and while the forenoon operations in the grain pits were the tamest of the week, they were far from dull. Declines were quickly followed by slight reactions, and while there was a downward tendency early for all grains, which showed good rallying strength, corn held up well in the face of wonderful receipts of contract stuff. Wheat was weak toward the close to-day, after selling up and down most of the seasion within \(^12\mathcal{O}\) are range, just under last night's prices. The situation at the seabord and on the other side was bearish, while the up and down most of the session within 120 4c range, just under last night's prices. The situation at the seabord and on the other side was bearish, while the advices from the wheat-fields were as bullish as any yet received. But few of the big local operators showed their hands. Ream was prominent as a "bear," and the scalpers were with him. The prospective accumulation of wheat at the saboard, and the poor outlook for working it off in foreign markets. was, and has been, the "bears'" best hope. July sold at 87 lgc, down to 86 gc, up to 87 lgc, and shortly before the close touched the lowest point of the day, 86 gc, or just 1c under the close last night. December sold at 88 88 gc, and closed at 88 lgc. Corn was simply weighted down to-day by the actual stuff which was received here for a few days past, and which will be received early next week. For this morning the receipts were 788 cars, of which 625 cars graded No. 2. Later the estimate for Monday was put at 920 cars. Opening prices were about 2c under last night. The best prices for the session were but 14c better than the opening, and the closing prices were 1c lower than yesterday. There was a fair volume of trade in the pit. The market would, no doubt, have broken even worse but for the belief that the present big receipts cannot last long. May sold at 56c, and down to 55 4c, and July at 55 4c, and down to 54 gc. Oats were considerably depressed, and there was a liberal reaction from the lately advanced prices. May "shorts" were covered with such freedom the last few days that to-day there was little inquiry, and prices broke and closed at 37c and closed at 35 lgc, July opened at 33 gc, and closed at 33 c. Provisions were decidedly weak and unsettled, and a marked declino decidedly weak and unsettled, and a marked decline in prices was established. The receipts of hogs were air and prices lower, and the corn market also favored the buying interest. Eastern markets were easier, and Liverpool advices showed a weaker feeling. Unand Liverpool advices showed a weaker feeling. Under these circumstances local operators were disposed to sell product rather freely for future delivery, and outside orders were largely on the same side of the market. The demand was comparatively light, and mainly from the "short" interest, and the market lacked support the greater part of the day. The market closed rather tame at inside figures. July pork opened at $14.42½, sold down to $14.25, and closed at $14.27½. July lard opened at 8.60c, sold to 8.50c, and closed at 8.52½c. July short ribs opened at 7.67½c, sold up to 7.70c, down to 7.60c, and closed at 7.65c. The leading futures ranged as follows:

INDIANAPOLIS MARKETS. Trade Fairly Active, with a Firm Tone to Prices in Most Lines.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 26. The last three days of this week, in most depart ments of trade, the volume has been quite satisfacto ry. In most lines, however, competition is sharp, and goods are sold on very close margins, so close that a few bad debts would wipe the margins out; but, fortunately, the retail merchants who deal with the Indianapolis houses are in good shape financially, and many are able to discount their bills when they can profit thereby. In dry goods, especially, is this remark true. One of the wholesale merchants says that their experience has been for years past that with each year the merchants of Indiana and Illi nois, and other States who make their chases largely in this market, have been getting into better shape financially, and but seldom is a bill lost, not one where there were five ten years ago. In the dry goods line prices continue in strong position the weakness of the wool and cotton markets not affecting manufactured goods as yet. Grocers have had a busy week. Coffees are firm at the recent advances, which amount to 21g cents per pound on green grades, on roasted coffee to 112 cent. Sugars are not higher East, but an advance in the coming week is predicted, so largely has the demand increased of late. Dried fruits are selling better but prices of late. Dried fruits are selling better but prices rule weak. Other staple groceries firm but unchanged. The hide market is still sickly and no signs of improvement are visible. Hardware men have had a busy week, prices firm, competition sharp, sales close. The produce markets are moderately active. Strawberries were in good supply to-day, and unless really choice fruit prices were off a little. New potatoes and in fact early vegetables of all kinds are more plenty, and prices weakening. Receipts of poultry large and prices drooping. Eggs in light supply and prices firm. Butter arriving more freely, but still meets with ready sale at our quotations. Druggists are experincing a good trade, and prices on all articles they handle rule firm. Paints and oils are meeting with large sales at unchanged prices. Dealers meeting with large sales at unchanged prices. Dealers in lumber, brick, lime and all descriptions of building material are very busy, and prices, except for brick, are firm at about the range of the corresponding period last year. The seed men report trade quiet, but in the last three months their sales were largely in excess of the corresponding period of 1887. The wool market has taken on a steady tone, and receipts of the new clip are on the increase.

There was a fair attendance on 'Change for Saturday, but in the bidding caution was shown. It cannot be said to be a dull market, yet there is large room for improvement to make it an active one. The Indianapolis Market Report says: "Receipts and shipments are heavier than at time of last report. Inspections for past two days amount to 44 cars, as against 17 cars for preceding two days. Offerings from the country are much more free, while the demand is hardly as good. Wheat is slow sale at the lower prices below quoted. Corn is in fair demand. White grades are quoted off about lee; No. 2, yellow or mixed, salable in a small way at 55 lgc. Ear seemed to be slow sale; Indiana offered at 56c, with 55e bid. Oats are steady, with a light trade. Feeds are very duil. Hay is in light demand, yet sufficient to absorb the offerings." Track bids to-day ruled as

The Abused Crow. J. T. Atwater, in Wide Awake. For centuries the crow has been shot at, destroyed and abused by men; and to-day how few know, or will believe, the good that crows do in agriculture. I refuse to let anyone disturb crows when they settle on my newly-planted corn-fields, and my neighbors here in southern. Maryland have to replant far more than I do. Y do not dispute that the crows take some toll for destroying the cut-worms; but I think them en-stitled to as much as they take. I took a neighbor through his own corn field and offered him a dollar for every ear of corn (not yet fully ripe) which had been partially eaten by the crows, but which did not show traces of the corn-worm. He could not find one from which the crow had not first taken the worm. In no case could a sound ear be found that had been disturbed by the crows. Still the same man continues to shoot the crows. Entomology and ornithology, in their practical application, are branches of agriculture, and there is need of much post-graduate study in the gardens and the fields. These sciences cannot be fully learned in the

ly, there is a too general disposition to give un-due emphasis to the learned professions and commercial pursuits, and to look with disfavor upon manual labor. This is so much the case in some sections of the country that one who learns a'trade runs the risk of losing social caste. The press and our educational institutions have with the best of intention done much to create a centiment of this kind. Our young men are told to aim high, and the lives of lawyers, statesmen and merchants, who have risen from poverty and obscurity to wealth and eminence, are held up to them as examples worthy of their ambition. But they are not told, as they should be, that these are exceptional men whose success is due not so much to the vocation they chose as to their great ability or to peculiar circumstances; that it is only here and there that a man makes a name for himself; that where one man becomes rich by honorable methods 10,000 remain poor; that in the nature of things the average person can hope for nothing more than a mere com-petence, and that only by the sweat of his brow. We are reaping the legitimate result of this indiscriminate attempt to fire the mind of young America with lofty aspirations. His ambition is getting to be out of all proportion to his capacity. Labor that requires muscle as well as brain is incompatible with his notion of gentility, and in a large number of cases he is speiling a good farmer or mechanic to make a poor lawyer, or doctor, or clerk. And this will go on indefinitely until a healthier sentiment prevails—until young men are inspired with George Eliot's admiration for large, muscular hands, and broad chests and sunburnt faces. This is one cause of the exodus from the rural sections, but there is another side to this question which is even more

It is not strange that so many young men are deserting the farm; the only wonder is that so many yet remain. How many farmers are there who eat in their dining-rooms when they do not have company; who always use the best they have for their own family; who plant buy games for their children; who cultivate social life to the full extent of their opportunities: who do not run down farmtheir opportunities; who do not run down farming as an occupation when seasons are unfavorable; who put on clean clothes after the day's work, and pay special attention to the niceties of manner and appearance which give charm to family life; who purchase books and papers; who plan and execute pleasant surprises for the home circle; who encourage their sons to make a scientific study of farming; who give them a proprietary interest in the farm, and an opportunity now and then to see a little of the world? Is it to be wondered at that when these things Is it to be wondered at that when these things are considered of but little moment young men turn with longing eyes to the cities?

Care of the Hair.

Frequent brushing of the hair is recommended for its improvement. The scalp should be made to glow with the vigorous use of a stiff bristled brush, and a thorough brushing before going to bed at night is considered to be of the utmost mportance. This gives gloss and softness, and long hair is in special need of it. Sage tea was an old-fashioned remedy for wetting the scalp and preventing the bair from falling out and it is still regarded as excellent. Ammonia and borax are both used as invigorators of the hair, but they should be used only in small quantities, or they will do more harm than good, for too much ammonia will inflame the scalp and too much borax will make the hair dry and brittle. Nor is soap good for the hair. The scalp may be cleaneed with the yolk of an egg, beaten in a very little water, and rubbed well into the scalp, where it should be allowed to dry and afterwards rinsed off with lukewarm water containing a little ammonia. After the hair has been wet it should be thoroughly dried before going to bed and before go-ing out into the open air. The scratching and irritating of the scalp with a sharp-too thed comb should be avoided and the same danger is to be looked out for in the use of a metallic
